...will be mostly cloudy, windy and cold, with highs in the mid 30s. Monday night will be fair and colder, with lows in the low or upper 30s.

Winter made its first appearance Sunday morning as Charleston was blanketed with about two inches of snow, just enough to build a snowman. And the residents of 1821 S. Ninth St. wasted no time in displaying their enthusiasm about the snowfall. (News photo by Amy Zurawski)

Mild winter ahead despite early snow—forecasters

Kevin McDermott

Despite an unusually early first snow this year, forecasters are predicting a relatively mild winter. Meanwhile, no one is ready to guess whether we are in for a white Christmas.

Local weather observer Dalias Price said the first major snow of the season began late Saturday night, dumping about 2.2 inches in the Charleston area.

"It is a little bit unusual to have snow this early," Price said, noting that the first snow usually falls closer to Thanksgiving.

Wyndam Roberts, weathercaster for WIA-TV in Champaign, said Saturday's snowfall was a "warning" of the coming winter, but was not very significant in itself.

"It was just one of those snowfalls that came at night when the temperature was low," Roberts said. "If it had come during the day, it would have been a light rain."

Price said Saturday's surprise snowfall does not necessarily indicate a heavy winter. "Up until January, it looks as though we'll have a milder winter than we did last year."

Roberts also forecasted a mild winter, with temperatures about 55 percent higher than they were last winter. However, he stressed that such forecasts are not always accurate.

"Long-range forecasts are just terrific guesses," Roberts said. "Even short-range forecasts are tough to call."

As for our prospects for a white Christmas, Price and Roberts agreed

Educational goals cause Selby to withdraw from race

Diane Nowak

Eastern junior Steve Selby, who had previously announced he would run in Charleston's April 2 general election, has withdrawn his name from the race because of personal long-term goals.

Selby recently said running for mayor would take too much time from his education.

"I would like to attend law school after college, so I want to keep up my grades," Selby said. "I always wanted to go to law school. I thought realistically of what I wanted to do, and they (law school and running for mayor) were different."

Selby said problems with the Charleston police department were the biggest reason for his original decision.

"I'm really happy with the police force in some ways," Selby said. "The bicycle fines and parking tickets are taken care of well, but if they take care of that they should also be around for the rapes."

Selby said there is no student involvement in the way the city is run, and added that Charleston's government is "lacking youth" as a result.

Selby, who is originally from Alton, said it wouldn't take anyone special to run for city office. "If the student feels qualified and concerned, then he should run for mayor."

He also encouraged students to vote in the April election. "People don't realize the low-turnout of voters."

He added that if the students do vote, they could determine the winner because Eastern students make up a substantial portion of Charleston's population.

Selby said he is interested in government and the law because they are similar in nature. "I can see history growing and changing."

Mayor Clancy Pfeiffer said recently it is "assumed" that he is running for re-election in the spring, but added, "I have not committed myself yet."

Pfeiffer said his first area of concern if re-elected is economic development.

"We need more industry in town," Pfeiffer said, adding that a lack of jobs in Charleston is discouraging new people from settling here.

Both Selby and Pfeiffer said Olga Durham, Charleston's public health and safety commissioner who announced her mayoral candidacy last week, is well-qualified for the office.

Selby said Durham is intelligent and well-informed about Charleston's problems. "I respect both the candidates (Pfeiffer and Durham)," he said. "We need someone who can unite the students with the city. The students are not stupid."

Selby added that, although Mayor Clancy Pfeiffer is not a very "dynamic leader," he has been an effective administrator.

Latest plan calls for more campus patrols

by Julie Zook

An Eastern student who says he wants to "eliminate a problem" has proposed a third security alternative for Eastern students.

Senior Paul LaRock said his main concern is attacks against people, including both assaults and attempted rapes.

The new security alternative is similar to a Neighborhood Watch program; it is not, however, an escort service, LaRock said.

Neighborhood Watch takes place in residential areas where specific residents drive around in cars equipped with radios. If they see something suspicious, they call the neighborhood headquarters which are equipped with a radio receiver. The person at headquarters then calls the local police to investigate, LaRock explained.

LaRock's proposal would have eight patrols of two people each. Each patrol would be equipped with a radio. If the unit saw something going on, it would call Campus Police.

One person of the patrol would stay with the victim, while the other (with the radio) would follow the attacker, "but he wouldn't play Superman," LaRock stressed.

"It (the proposal) is to add eyes and ears on campus," LaRock said.

In addition, he noted that the new proposal is not definite, but it is "something we could start with."

"I can hand it off and we can move things around. I'm just trying to sell the idea," he said.

Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said LaRock "hasn't talked to me" about the proposal.

Angelynn Richardson, student government executive vice president, said she did not know about the proposal. "Senate needs to be aware of what's going on," she added.

Patrick Bradley, Residence Hall Association adviser, said a "few things about the proposal concerned me. He's asking everyone at Eastern to pay for protection mainly for residence hall students."

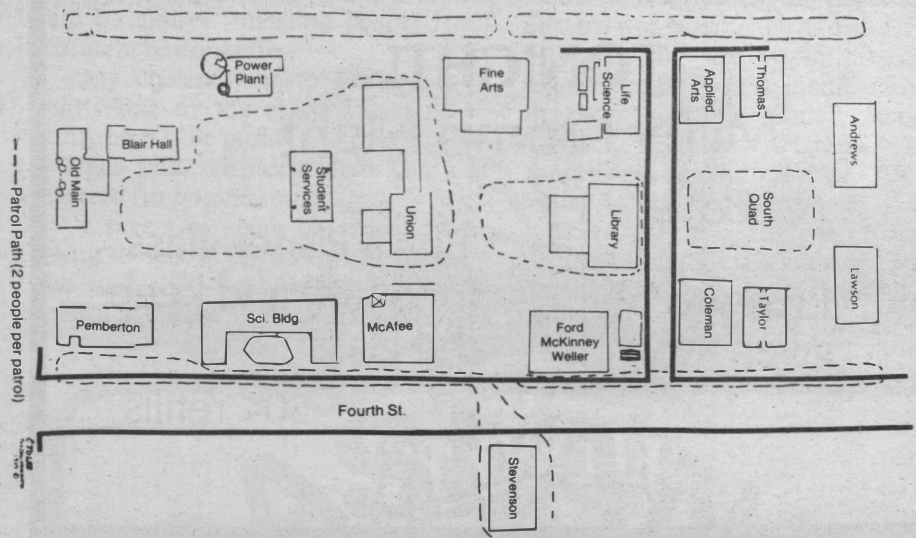

"It is also in conflict with our night assistant programs and the increased number of people patrolling the campus," Bradley continued.

LaRock said, "The program would supplement the university police. The night assistants do a good job indoors...it's the best they can do, but it's not enough."

LaRock's proposal states the cost for the program's first semester would be $1.41 per student. This figure includes the labor as well as a one-time cost for the radios.

Succeeding semesters' costs would be about $1.21 per student. All figures are based on a student population of 10,000.

The eight patrols would walk from (See LATEST, page 7)

This graph depicts the areas which would be patrolled under the new security proposal. Although Carman Hall is not shown on the map, the plan includes patrols for the Carman Hall area.

Beer riots campus phenomenon

CHAMPAIGN—As the drinking age goes up and stricter on-campus consumption rules are laid down, college administrators and city officials in the Midwest are increasingly concerned about a new phenomenon: the beer riot.

More than 1,000 Illinois State University students rioted in Normal Oct. 3, angered by city ordinances designed to curb large parties and control drinking.

In Carbondale, home of Southern Illinois University, police made 228 arrests for underage drinking during a Halloween bash. And at the University of Illinois, police—fearing a riot—controlled Halloween revelers in Champaign by suspending a crackdown on liquor violations.

"To take away the right to drink is something that calls for some sort of unrest," said Gregory Moore, president of the U.S. Student Association.

"I'm basically surprised it took students this long to react," he said. "I think we're only seeing the beginning of these uprisings."

Some administrators agree.

Author's works banned in Peoria

CHICAGO—Controversial author Judy Blume, who had three of her books taken from school library shelves in Peoria last week, received a Carl Sandburg Freedom to Read Award in Chicago for her fight against censorship.

The award, established by Playboy's Christie Hefner, was presented to Blume by the Friends of the Chicago Public Library Saturday night at a ball.

"We're proud and delighted to be giving Judy Blume this award," Faye Schwimmer, co-chairman of the ball, said. "She deserves it for what she has done to obstruct censorship."

Blume's latest confrontation with censorship came last week, when Peoria school officials said three of her books were being removed from elementary school libraries because of their sexual content or language.

After several parents complained about the content of six of Blume's works, two Peoria school committees reviewed the material and recommended removing three, according to Associate School Superintendent Dennis Gainey.

"If we have a conflict, then I think we ought to drop those materials," Gainey said.

Former Minister's death faked, exposes Khadafy's death squad

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—A former Libyan prime minister, who Egypt says played dead for phony photographs to trick a Libya-paid assassination team, vowed Sunday to keep up his public opposition to Col. Moammar Khadafy.

"We will continue our struggle to get rid of this abnormal ruler," exile Abdel-Hamid Bakoush told The Associated Press the day after Egyptian authorities revealed the elaborate ruse that led to the arrest of four men.

Interior Minister Ahmaed Rushdi said Khadafy's government hired the four, two Britons and two Maltese, for $250,000 to arrange the killing of Bakoush, who has lived in Cairo since 1977. Rushdi said the death squad was recruited through the Libyan Embassy in Malta and was given $150,000 to hire Egyptians to carry out the actual killing.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak said on Saturday that he learned of the assassination plot, along with Libyan plans to kill a number of world leaders, during a trip to Western Germany last month and he warned the other countries.

In a dispatch on Sunday, Libya's official JANA news agency quoted Libya's No. 2 leader, Staff Maj. Abbelsalam Jalloud, as saying Egypt would not be able to protect Bakoush "even if Hosni Mubarak put all the Egyptian army" to that purpose.

Rushdi said four men arrested told authorities that Khadafy had plans to assassinate heads of state in Western Germany, France, India, Pakistan, Britain, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates.

Mubarak told reporters Sunday the four also told investigators Libya played a role in the assassinating Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi Oct. 31.

Rushdi identified those arrested as Anthony William Gill, 48, and Godfrey Chiner, 47, both of London, and Remeo Nicholas Chakambari, 42, and Edgar Bonic Cacia, both of Malta. Rushi said they would be tried, but did not say on what charges.

He said the men ended up hiring undercover agents to act as their killers, and the agents staged photographs of Bakoush bound, gaged, blood-spattered and finally lying supposedly dead in a pool of blood.

Saudi: Islam condemns terrorism

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Middle East terrorist groups characterizing themselves as holy warriors were criticized as "abusers" of a sacred tenet of the Islamic faith by a Saudi Arabian religious leader during the weekend.

The secretary-general of the Mecca-based Moslem World League, Abdullah Naseef, issued a statement distinguishing jihad, or Islamic holy war, and modern terrorism.

"Jihad in Islam was instituted to further the causes of justice, dignity and Koranic law through a formal declaration of war against forces bent on undermining these values and rights," he told the Associated Press in a telephone interview Saturday.

The league is a Saudi organization striving to promote Islamic study and research throughout the world.

Conceding that he wanted to avoid trouble with terrorist groups, Naseef said, "Let me only underscore the principle that the practice of terrorism is against Islamic teachings. I will not single out any specific group by its name."

"It is unthinkable that any honest scholar would condone crimes against humanity, destruction of installations and terrorism against innocent people committed under the pretext of jihad," he said.

"Islam condemns violence of any nature."

A number of terrorist groups operate underground in Lebanon and elsewhere in the Middle East under self-styled religious tenets.

Lincoln construction work still running on schedule

by Tom Parisi

The $3.6 million construction project along Lincoln Avenue is on schedule and should be completed by June or July, a spokesman for the Illinois Department of Transportation said recently.

"By next Wednesday, we will probably be done with everything in town for this year," said George Sherer, resident engineer for the IDOT Lincoln Avenue construction project. Construction will end for the winter and will begin again in spring.

The Lincoln Avenue project covers a 10.2-mile stretch starting at Lerna Road and extending to the east side of the Charleston city limits. The construction work includes asphalt overlay, curb and gutter work, turning lane installations and sidewalk ramps for the handicapped.

"Right now," Sherer said, "we have the sidewalks torn up at Seventh, Sixth, Fourth, Division and University (streets). The traffic signal people will get as much done as possible and then we will pour the concrete, probably by Wednesday."

Sherer said the city received "about a half-dozen complaints one week" because of snarled traffic between Fourth and Sixth streets on Lincoln Avenue.

However, Sherer said the traffic situation has been better than originally expected. "I'm really surprised we haven't had more problems," he said.

The major contractor for the project is Howell Asphalt Co., but contracts have also been given to A.J. Walker Construction Co., Hubbard Electric Co. and Huckuba and Sons Construction Co., Sherer said.

Chuck Slavens, general superintendent for Howell Asphalt, agreed that the project is "pretty close" to being right on schedule.

Most of the asphalt work will be done next spring when the weather warms up, he added.

"We shut down our plants Wednesday because our warm-weather season is over," Slavens said. "We're like farmers. Everything strictly depends on the weather."

Slavens added that he did not know exactly when the asphalt work would begin this spring.

Foreign students enjoy friendly campus atmosphere

by Tim Ipema

Several foreign students on campus this semester said studying in the United States has been made easier because of the friendly atmosphere they've found at Eastern.

"Dealing with students and instructors is easier," Olugbenga Adeeko, a Business Administration graduate student, said. Eastern is a "medium-size school" with lots of nice people, he added.

Adeeko's country, Nigeria, is among the 26 foreign countries represented at Eastern this fall.

Theodora Djan, a junior computer management major from Ghana, agreed with Adeeko.

Djan said the people at Eastern (instructors and students) are "very friendly, nice people." She added that Eastern is a "perfect place to study," partially because of the quiet atmosphere.

Graduate student Spenser Hor said in addition to the friendly people, he enjoys studying in a small town. He said he likes the atmosphere of a "small town as opposed to a big city."

Hor, a student from Taiwan, Republic of China enrolled in the masters of business administration program, said he selected Eastern because he heard the school of business was reputable. Also, studying at Eastern would give him the chance to see the Midwest area.

Alswinn Kieboom, a sophomore zoology major from Holland, also enjoys the friendly atmosphere Eastern offers its students.

"They don't consider me a foreigner anymore. I fit in," Kieboom said.

"I came to the United States as a high school exchange student," Kieboom added. "Now I'm continuing both sports and studies at Eastern."

Accounting major Kingsley Wokuwu said studying in America gives him an advantage because he has the "opportunity to meet people from different walks of life."

Wokukwu, a junior from Nigeria, said he enjoys "meeting people from different nationalities."

"My cousin went to Eastern, and that's one of the reasons I came to study here," he said.

Djan said she decided to study at Eastern for two reasons.

"I save two years of education by going to school in the United States," she said. "If I would have gone to school in Ghana, I'd have to go for two more years."

In addition, Djan said her brother, who also studied at Eastern, was another influence in her decision.

Adeeko noted that his knowledge of the English language also made his transition easier.

"In Nigeria, we are taught English as a second language," Adeeko said. "That is one reason the transition to Eastern was easier," he added.

Some of the other countries represented at Eastern include: Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Ecuador, England, Germany, Greece, India, Jamaica, Japan, Kenya, Korea, Malaysia and the Netherlands.

There are also students from the People's Republic of China, the Philippines, Portugal, Saudi Arabia and Thailand.

Discount cards may conserve scarce money

The chance to save scarce resources doesn't come along everyday. But many Eastern students are wasting the opportunity to conserve one of the resources they have the least of—money.

- Money doesn't grow on trees.
- Money doesn't fall from the sky.

Editorial

- Money doesn't appear under your pillow.
- Money does stay in the pockets of student discount card users longer.

Although student discount cards entitle their holders to reduced prices at the several Charleston stores listed on the card, the cards are not being used much.

The discount cards—sponsored by the Student Senate and The Daily Eastern News—have been available since Oct. 17, but several merchants listed on the card have reported that few students have used the cards. In addition, more than 3,000 cards are still available for students to obtain.

Being the owner of a card offers students the chance to pay less for school supplies, food, cleaning, clothing and other services.

Who could pass up a deal like that?

Perhaps students who haven't obtained the card have forgotten the card was available or haven't had the time to get it. Those students should remember that a walk to the Student Government Office in the Union could mean great financial savings.

And once a student has a card it's easy for him to forget about its existence. Such forgetfulness is costly.

As the Christmas shopping season draws close, another strain will be placed on the restricted budgets of college students. The card offers a great opportunity for making that strained budget stretch a little bit further for gift buying.

Every opportunity to use the card should be taken; if it is not, the gift of the discount card may not be available in future years. If merchants do not see that the card is used, they may be unwilling to participate in the discount card again.

The loss of the discount card would be the loss of a precious resource—money.

Players break rules

Editor:

I consider myself to be one of many loyal fans of the varsity soccer team. I very much enjoyed following this year's squad; they are very talented and entertaining to watch.

I was very happy that they were able to complete their season with a 2-0 victory on Nov. 10.

Just two days later, however, I was very unhappy to observe three members of the team participate, under assumed names, in an intramural soccer match. By doing so, they broke two explicit intramural program rules: playing under assumed names and participation by varsity team members.

More importantly, they flagrantly violated the spirit of a fine intramural soccer program. These talented players can choose between varsity and intramural soccer. The intramural program is designed for those who generally do not have that choice.

Even though I realize these three acted as individuals and not as official representatives of the varsity Panthers, their unfortunate decision to intrude upon an intramural tournament has dampened my enthusiasm for the varsity soccer program.

Hunger plea doesn't hold up in court

I am contemplating taking some action soon, but before I do, I would like to get your opinion on its impact. I expect that next Friday I will be sitting in my dorm room and at 10 p.m., alone, bored and hungry, I will decide to go to the White Hen for a Milky Way, peanuts and perhaps a few other culinary delights.

Upon quick audit of the checkbook and wallet, I will discover that those repositories of funds are as bare as the proverbial cupboards. Undaunted, I will decide to proceed with the plan, paying for the bulky items with a bad check and concealing the small ones unobtrusively in pockets or bookbags.

It will surprise no one to learn that the preceding letter is fictional. No one has ever contacted the Students' Legal Services with such a question. Why? Because upon a few seconds reflection the answer becomes obvious: "The actions you propose to take constitute crimes, and if caught, you will be prosecuted."

People routinely see attorneys before taking action which have foreseeable, if unknown, legal consequences. At SLS, we routinely see students who want advice on the implications of signing a lease, the dangers of talking to the police and a myriad of other things.

Why, then, does no one consult before shoplifting or writing a bad check?

Two theoretical possibilities come to mind: (a) Crime of passion. As we have said, if one merely asks the question, the answer is obvious. It may be that the question is never asked in the first place.

Perhaps on Friday night the brain short circuits and hunger impulses are translated directly into action, with no reflection as to the consequences. If any thought process occurs, it would be to a limited to an envisioned defense (not unlike the sanity plea) of, "Your Honor, I did it, but I was hungry."

The second possibility is the Cost/Benefit analysis. This possibility does involve reasoning and the reasoning runs like this: (1.) If one does not get caught, one gets away with it. (2.) I will not get caught. (3.) Therefore, I will get away with it.

The sad facts are that you will get caught and the insanity-by-hunger defense holds little promise of prevailing in these conservative times.

Crossview:

Daily Vidette

Deceptive practices (writing bad checks) and retail theft are regarded by the legislature as being rather serious offenses, even if the booty obtained thereby amounts to nothing more than a bag of roasted peanuts. Consequently, they are punishable by any sentence up to a $1,000 fine and 364 days in jail.

Such charges are difficult to defend because built-in presumptions in the laws defining the offenses. One charged with retail theft is presumed to have intended to shoplift the item if he/she walks past the cashier without paying for an item concealed in a pocket.

One charged with deceptive practices is presumed to have intended to defraud the shopkeeper if the bank statement shows that the account had insufficient funds. The burden is on you to show that you were simply forgetful.

To this you may object, "I thought the prosecutor had to prove me guilty. What about the presumption of innocence?" To which we can only reply that the courts have upheld these laws which put the burden on you, the defendant.

If convicted you will have a criminal record and you must tell prospective employers as much. In many cases, they will view it as more serious than an alcohol charge because it is a crime of "moral turpitude."

Cost/Benefit analysis may not be such a bad way to analyze one's shopping trip decisions, but it becomes clear that a two-pronged analysis is necessary, asking not just "what is the probability of my getting caught?" But also "What are the consequences if I do get caught?" And given the consequences, the food you pocket may turn out to have the most expensive price tag.

Donations create RHA controversy

by Julie Zook

The Residence Hall Association's policy committee has designed a new constitutional amendment to resolve problems caused when two of Eastern's hall councils requested monetary donations for accident victims.

The amendment was deemed necessary by RHA president Joe Wheeler because he believed if there was one request, there are more to follow so guidelines are necessary to govern RHA donations and contributions.

The proposed amendment, listed under Article Eight: Contributions-Donations, states that RHA shall allocate no more than $50 per semester for contributions-donations.

It also states that the group may allocate up to $10 per contribution-donation.

In addition, the proposal states that RHA shall, as a body, decide which incidents or occasions merit a contribution, what amount is to be allocated, and what form the contribution shall be given in.

The association will vote on the proposal at its Nov. 29 meeting in Stevenson Hall food service.

In related business, junior Lisa Blackburn, Pemberton Hall Council president, said the residents have raised $100 in donations to be given to Perry McNamee and Holly Williams, who were both recent auto accident victims.

"We raised the money through a pumpkin decorating contest and personal contributions of Pemberton residents," Blackburn said.

"Nobody knows Pemberton Hall and we don't always feel recognized. We do a lot of good things, too. We're not just a bunch of upperclassmen studying," Blackburn added.

In other business, members listened to campaign speeches from students vying for three vacated executive RHA positions.

RHA vice president Leslie Garrigan, a senior running in an uncontested race for RHA president, told members "you know what I've done and what I can do," during her speech.

Sophomore Mike Hoehne, candidate for vice president, said he is running because "I felt I wanted to be a greater part of RHA."

The other vice presidential candidate, sophomore Steve Hogan, said he "will use the vice presidency as a learning experience for me, both personally and professionally."

In an uncontested race for national communications coordinator, junior Laura Seymour and junior Penny Jones are seeking the position as a pair because outgoing NCC Carolyn Smith noted that the job is too much for one person to handle.

Lynch Quincy stereotype hides reality of Coles County coroner duties

by Scott Lovett

Dick Lynch doesn't drive around Charleston with a .38-caliber pistol trying to solve murders.

Lynch, who has been Coles County Coroner since 1972, said the reality of his position is quite different from the stereotype presented by television's "Quincy"—"The coroner has two basic duties: to establish the cause of death, and then establish the manner."

After defeating Republican challenger Michael Malone in the Nov. 6 general election, Lynch is beginning his fourth term in what seems to be a misunderstood position.

What most people don't realize, Lynch said, is that the coroner is also considered a law enforcement officer.

"The coroner has the powers to arrest, subpoena, and carry a weapon," he noted. "If the sheriff were to suddenly die, I would take his position until a replacement was found, and vice-versa...the sheriff and

I have equal power."

And although he believes the dramatic "Quincy" image does coroners a lot of good, Lynch is quick to point out the differences between himself and the fictional television character.

"Quincy is a doctor, I'm not," he noted. "He (Quincy) is a pathologist who does actual autopsies. I more or less control investigations."

Lynch recalled his most frustrating case, which is known as the "Air-tight murder." In October of 1980, a female victim was found with her head, feet, and hands severed, preventing any identification. Her identity is still unknown, although Lynch said a suspect has confessed the murder.

The suspect, who has also confessed to being a part of at least 380 murders, is currently being held in Texas.

Although Lynch has only one paid full-time deputy, he has numerous volunteers. "A good coroner is smart enough to realize that he needs professionals to help him."

At $14,000 a year, the coroner's job "is a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week position," Lynch said. "As a coroner you are constantly learning. There are no two deaths exactly alike."

10 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Sunday through Thursday. Friday and Saturday nights, the patrols would walk from 11 p.m. until 3 a.m.

The total man hours per week for 16 people would be 328, at a cost of $3.35 per hour. For the 11 weeks of spring semester, covering Feb. 17 to May 10, the labor cost would be $12,087.

The one-time cost of the eight radios would be $2,000, with the radios priced at $200. The total cost for the first semester would be $14,086.

LaRock estimates that an additional $25 would be needed each of the following semesters to cover the cost of repairs and batteries.

LaRock said his proposal was based on a program implemented at a San Diego Marine base while he was stationed there.

"They were having problems with vandalism and stuff, so they started this program right before I left, and from what I heard, it worked really well," LaRock said.

that at this time, the best prediction anyone can make will be based on past data.

However, they disagreed on exactly what that data indicates.

Price said there is a "one in four chance" of significant snowfall on Christmas day any given year.

Roberts was more optimistic about the situation. "I would say that there is a 40 percent chance (of snow on Christmas)."

There is a possibility of snow Sunday night, followed by temperatures in the upper 30s for the rest of the week.

Thomas' field goal gives Bears last-second victory

CHICAGO (AP)—Kicker Bob Thomas salvaged a sputtering offense with his third field goal of the game, a 47-yard effort with two seconds remaining Sunday to lift the Chicago Bears to a 16-14 National Football League victory over the Detroit Lions. The triumph boosted the first-place Bears to 8-4 and dropped Detroit to 3-9, eliminating the defending champions from the title consideration in the NFC Central Division.

After a timeout, Thomas came on to kick the game-winner and give the Bears the victory, despite their fourth straight game without a touchdown in the second half.

Giants 16, Cardinals 10

Ali Haji-Sheikh kicked three third-quarter field goals and Mark Haynes kicked off two passes as the New York Giants forced six turnovers to top the St. Louis Cardinals 16-10 in a bitter NFC East showdown fought almost entirely by two smothering defenses.

The Giants, improved their record to 5-5, while the Cardinals dropped from first to fourth in the conference with a 16-6 mark to put their playoff hopes in serious jeopardy.

Chargers 34, Miami 28, OT

Butford McGee scampered 25 yards for a touchdown 3:17 into overtime as San Diego rallied from a 14-point deficit to end Miami's winning streak in 11 games with a 34-28 victory.

Packers 24, Buccaneers 17

Defensive end Fred Dean, in his first game after ending a holdout, made two key plays against the Buccaneers as the Packers, 11-1, assured themselves of at least a wild card playoff berth.

Broncos 42, Vikings 21

John Elway dissected the Minnesota defense with five touchdown passes in less than three quarters, sparking the Broncos to their tenth straight victory.

Bills 14, Cowboys 3

Greg Bell scored two touchdowns, including an 85-yard run on the first play of the game, as the Bills shocked the Cowboys for their first victory of the season after 11 losses.

Eagles 16, Redskins 10

Eagles' rookie free agent Andre Waters returned a kickoff 89 yards for a touchdown and rookie Paul McFadden kicked three field goals as Philadelphia beat the Redskins.

Packers 31, Rams 6

Eddie Lee Ivey rushed for three touchdowns and cornerback Tim Lewis returned an interception a team-record 99 yards for another TD to power Green Bay to its fourth straight victory.

Patriots 50, Colts 17

New England quarterback Tony Eason passed for 292 yards and four touchdowns, three of them to Derrick Ramsey in the first half, as the Patriots cruised to an easy victory over the Colts.

Seahawks 26, Bengals 6

Seattle's ball-hungry defense set up one of Zachary Dixon's two touchdown runs and Norm Johnson's field goal, shutting off the Bengals for a team-record sixth consecutive victory.

Browns 23, Falcons 7

Cleveland's defense unloaded with an NFL record-tying 11 sacks and Paul McDonald hurled a pair of touchdown passes as the Browns beat the Falcons in a game marred by an injury to Atlanta quarterback Steve Bartkowski, who suffered a sprained knee. A team spokesman said Bartkowski will be out for the rest of the season.

Raiders 17, Chiefs 7

Linebacker Rod Martin returned one Kansas City fumble for a touchdown and forced a second that set up another Los Angeles score as the Raiders broke a three-game losing streak by whipping the punchless Chiefs.

Oilers 31, Jets 20

Houston's Warren Moon threw three touchdown passes—two to Tim Smith—during a string of 31 points to lift the Oilers over the Jets.

Montgomery leads Illini past Tisdale, Oklahoma

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Center George Montgomery scored 17 points and helped contain Wayman Tisdale as second-ranked Illinois routed No. 5 Oklahoma 81-64 Sunday in the Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic.

It was the biggest margin in the six years of the game which opens the college basketball season.

Tisdale, a two-time All-American, scored 19 points—eight below last season's average before fouling out with 2:42 remaining.

Eleven of the 6-9 Tisdale's points came when Montgomery was on the bench.

Montgomery, a 6-9, 235 senior, who led the sagging Illinois defense on Tisdale, was named the game's most valuable player. He also paced Illinois with 10 rebounds.

The Fighting Illini, co-champions of the Big Ten last season, methodically rolled up a 41-30 halftime lead as Tisdale was held to eight points.

The Sooners raced back at the start of the second half with Tisdale hitting a three-point play and Linwood Davis contributing two baskets to cut the margin to 45-41.

But Illinois went on a 17-6 tear capped by Efrem Winters' jumper with 6:55 to play to put the Illini ahead 62-47.

The closest the Sooners could get after that was 67-57, but Tisdale committed his fifth personal foul and the Oklahoma bench drew a technical foul.

Montgomery and Tony Wysinger each connected on two free throws for a 71-57 advantage.

Illinois had a balanced attack with Doug Altenberger adding 14 points.

Kings' McKinney resigns

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Jack McKinney resigned Sunday as head coach of the Kansas City Kings and Phil Johnson was hired for his second tour as coach of the National Basketball Association team.

The Kings and McKinney issued a joint statement announcing the unexpected changes. The Kings, 1-8, have the second-worst record so far in the young NBA season.

"I do this regretfully because for the past two months I have been working very hard to get the team straightened out and turned into a solid NBA club," said McKinney, who had spent the three previous seasons coaching the Indiana Pacers.

"Trying to do this has become extremely frustrating to me," he added. "The stress has given me many sleepless nights...until I have reached a point of being burned out."

Tankers off to good start in first meets

by Tina Fasano

The men's and women's swim teams did "exceptionally well" against Wheaton College and Vincennes University Friday and Saturday, head swimming coach Ray Padovan said.

The men won both dual matches as the women lost both, but Padovan said both teams swam well. The men's team brought home a 67-46 win over Wheaton.

Although the women's squad was defeated 54-59, Padovan said, "Eastern generally had good swims from everyone, and not just the veterans."

Padovan said he was impressed that the swimmers recorded exceptionally good times and lifetime-best times at such an early part of the season.

Despite both squads being shy in overall depth, there were many first-place finishes on both sides. On the men's side, Eastern won the 1000, 200, 100 and 50 freestyle events and also took first place finishes in the 200 breaststroke and diving.

"Our male swimmers had an easier time than expected," Padovan said. "They did well as far as overall bests and personal bests."

On the women's side of the board, the Panthers took points in the 200-yard breaststroke and both freestyle and medley relays.

After returning from Wheaton, the swimmers faced Vincennes Saturday.

"Swimming two meets back-to-back helps prepare the team for bigger, more important meets later in the season," Padovan said.

The final results of Saturday's meet was a 73-40 victory for the men's squad and a 61-51 loss for the women.

"It's not whether we won or not," Padovan said. "I feel the teams did exceptionally well as a whole unit."

Lack of defense gives cagers a 101-100 loss

by Ken Dickson

Head basketball coach Rick Samuels finally got a chance to watch the latest edition of the Panthers play against some competition Friday, but he wasn't too happy with the outcome.

"We've been talking about playing defense," Samuels said. "But I guess we're going to have to wait until Eastern Washington (the team's season opener Nov. 26) to play it."

The competition, with an Amateur Athletic Union team called Athletes Fighting Substance Abuse from Des Moines, took advantage of Eastern's lack of defense to win 101-100 at Lantz Gym.

"I knew we could put points on the board," Samuels said. "But we've got 10 days left (until the season's opener with Eastern Washington) and we're going to spend the next 10 days on defense."

"If we could score 100 points every night I'd be happy," Samuels said. "I'm unhappy because we gave up 101."

AFSA's Keith Moore made two free throws in the final seconds for what turned out to be the final points. After a Panther time out, Eastern's Jon Collins launched a shot from the base line with four seconds left, but missed.

"One positive thing is it will wake us up," he continued. "We've got a ton of work to do."

The visiting team included graduated college basketball players mainly from the Iowa universities. Seven of the expected players from AFSA didn't show, including Iowa University's Mark Gannon, Steve Carfino, Steve Waite and Drake's Wayne Kreklow, who played two years of professional basketball with the Boston Celtics.

Dave Kidwell, Eastern sports information director, said Gannon was getting married Saturday and Carfino and Waite were in the wedding. Kreklow could not get off work, he added.

Despite the no-shows, Samuels said the AFSA team "played pretty darn well."

Todd Hutcheson, a 1984 graduate of Western Illinois University and AMCU All-Conference Team member, led AFSA in scoring with 23 points and added nine rebounds. Terrance Allen, an Iowa State graduate, had 21 points.

"I'm glad Hutcheson doesn't play for Western anymore," Samuels said, "because he'd be doing that to us again this year."

Eastern's Jon Collins led all scorers with 25 points, while Dirk Androff and Doug Crook also scored in double figures with 17 and 14 points, respectively. Androff and Tim Dykstra each had eight rebounds.

Depth gives Panthers different lineup opportunities

by Ken Dickson

The school: Established in 1895, the school's enrollment is 9,908.

The records: The Panthers were 15-13 last season and 7-7 for fourth place in the AMCU. Eastern's all-time record against the other seven conference schools is 77-97, but 15-11 since the AMCU conference began in 1982. Eastern's all-time record, since its basketball program began in 1908, is 958-637. Even more impressively, Eastern's 18-year home record at Lantz Gym is 195-55.

The coach: Rick Samuels, a 1971 graduate of Chadron State College (an NAIA school located in Chadron, Neb.), is entering his fifth year as Eastern's head coach. In his four years with the Panthers, Samuels is 58-55. He spent two years as Chadron (Neb.) High School's head coach, 1973-1975, posting a 26-15 record. He also spent five years, 1975-1980, as an assistant coach. He coached the 1975-76 season at Eastern Washington University and the other four years at Iowa State University.

The schedule: The Panthers open their season

Monday, Nov. 26 at Eastern Washington University in Cheney, Wash. Eastern's first home game is Saturday, Dec. 1 against Indiana State. Among its other non-conference games, the Panthers play at Kent State University Dec. 5; at the Florida Southern First Federal Classic with Florida Southern University, Long Island University and American University; and host Pan American University.

The outlook: Eastern, picked to finish third in the AMCU, returns six full-time starters. Four are from last season and two starters, who were red-shirted last year, are from the 1982-83 team.

Last year's returning starters include AMCU Newcomer of the Year and All-Conference pick Jon Collins; 7-foot center Kevin Duckworth; 6-7, 230-pound forward Dirk Androff; and 6-1 point-guard Troy Richardson.

Joining the team after a year's layoff is 6-1 guard Doug Crook, who missed last season due to a wrist injury, and three-year letterman, Tim Dykstra, who sat out last year to play for the United States' Olympic Handball team.

Samuels said those six players, along with 6-8 senior forward Steven Hopkins, will see a lot of time this season. He said this year's team has so much depth that several different, but strong lineups will be used.

"It depends on the situations," Samuels said. "We have a big lineup that can match up with teams (using 7-0 Duckworth, 6-7 Androff, 6-8 Hopkins and 6-8 Dykstra), we have a small lineup that can play defense, handle the ball and run (using Richardson, Crook and Collins); and we have lineups between the two."

"We'd like to use Dykstra as our super-sub," Samuels said. "He's the type of player that can come off the bench and give the lineup a lift. He can play three positions (post, and small and big forward) and is a great defensive player."

Eastern returns most of its offensive punch along with its returnees. Collins was the AMCU's third highest scorer with 18.3 ppg.

Coming Tuesday: Cleveland State and Illinois-Chicago.
